- Note a) When the QFL adopted the fumble rule for individual players in 2007, the intent was not to penalize players who fielded kicks and/or punts. Due to a glitch in the software, however, these fumbles are improperly deducted from an individual's offensive point totals. In situations where an owner realizes that one of these situations has affected his team's ability to win a game or a skin, points will be changed in the software, provided that (1) the owner raises this issue in accordance will Rule 3, Section 2, Article 1, and (2) these points are the deciding factor in determining the outcome of a game and/or skin.
- Article 3 Individual offensive players do not get points for kick return or punt return touchdowns.
- Article 4 Defense/Special Teams receive 6 points for any touchdowns scored by the unit while they are on the field.
- Note a) As an example, the unit receives 6 points for a missed field goal returned for a touchdown.
- Note b) However, where an offensive player recovers a fumble in the endzone, absent multiple changes of possession, the offensive player (not the D/STs unit) is credited with a touchdown.

Note c) After multiple changes of possession during a single play, the D/STs unit (not an offensive player) is credited with a turnover and/or touchdown for the second turnover.

Note c): Division Record only pertains to opponents in the same division.

Note d): In determining the "lower-ranked team" for free agents and waiver claims before the QFL championship tournament, Rules 4 and 7 are both considered. Accordingly, during the regular season, a division leader is ranked higher than any non-division leader with the same record.

Note e): In determining the "lower-ranked team" for free agents and waiver claims after the QFL championship tournament has started, Rules 4 and 6 are both considered. Accordingly, a team that has an opportunity to finish in a higher place is higher-ranked, irrespective of record, than teams that are competing for lower-place finishes (e.g. a team competing in the third-place game is higher-ranked than a team competing in the seventh-place game). Moreover, in the event that two teams that placed a free agent or waiver claim and are still competing for the same place in the final standings (e.g. both teams still have an opportunity to finish 1st, 3rd, 5th, 7th, etc.), the lower-seeded team is the "lower-ranked team."

Article 3 If the tie involves 3 or more teams, the following procedure is followed:

Determine the highest-ranked team in each division Seed the highest-ranked team from i)

Repeat until all ties are broken

Note a) For example-- in a 4-way tie a team can't be seeded higher than any team that finished higher in the same division. However, if all other division teams have been seeded during tie-breaking, a team may become the highest-ranked team remaining in its division and compared to the other remaining teams.

If the player becomes a keeper, whatever his contract status is at the end of 2009 (S1 or L1) will carry into 2010 (S2 or L2). Article 5 Free agents are signed to standard contracts with the current year considered to be Year One.

Article 6 Free agents may be signed directly to the practice squad.

Article 7 All free agent signings are final.

Note a) Where a free agent or waiver wire transaction results in an illegal active roster, salary cap violation, etc. any remedy must result in the free agent/waiver wire player remaining on the active roster. In remedying the violation, the Commissioner must attempt to ascertain what would have happened if the violation had not occurred. Because the nature of this violation is difficult to remedy in that the severity of the remedy usually depends on both the status of the QFL season (whether the violation occurs during the draft/auction or during the regular season) and the time that has elapsed before a violation is discovered, violations with distinguishable underlying facts should still be handled on a case-by-case basis

Example i: After an owner picked up one player ($5), he cut three players to make his roster salary cap compliant. However, after these transactions, his active roster only had 15 players. The violation was discovered within 24 hours of the transactions before any games were played. In addition to fines and extra transaction costs, the Commissioner ruled that (1) all free agent/waiver signings are final and the pick-up must remain on the roster; (2) the owner was allowed to undo his cuts in reverse order (last cut comes back on roster first) until he could make additional transactions to make his roster compliant.

Example ii: An owner picked up two players for $24, putting him $15 over the salary cap [due to a high-priced player ($20) being on the team's injured reserve]. The violation was not discovered until after a game was played in which one of the free agent pick-ups started. In addition to fines and extra transaction costs, the Commissioner ruled that (1) all free agent/waiver signings are final and the two pick-ups must remain on the roster; (2) the owner was allowed to use the pick-ups and no points should be forfeited; and (3) the owner should be allowed to cut the high-priced player from the injured reserve.

Example iii: After an owner picked up a scrub wide receiver at the FA/waiver-wire deadline, he illegally cut his second defense. This violation was not discovered for several weeks until after the start of the playoffs. The scrub wide receiver that was picked up, in addition to other scrub wide receivers on the active roster, did not start during the regular season/playoffs. In addition, after the violation was remedied, the owner wanted to start the second defense (the team that was cut several weeks earlier) in the Quince Bowl. In addition to major fines and extra transaction costs, the Commissioner ruled that (1) all free agent/waiver signings are final and the pick-up wide receiver must remain on the roster; (2) the second defense should be placed back on the active roster and the owner was allowed to use this defense going forward in the Quince Bowl without forfeiting points/games; and (3) the owner should be allowed to cut one of his other scrub wide-receivers from his active roster.

Example iv: At QFL IV's first player auction, an owner submitted a $2 bid for a second quarterback despite having only $4 available for his remaining 4 picks. This violation was not discovered until Friday of Week 1 at a point where the quarterback was the only available starting QB on the active roster. In addition to fines and extra transaction costs, the Commissioner ruled that (1) all free agent/waiver signings are final and the quarterback should still be allowed to start in Week Two; (2) because there was no other way to cure the violation by cutting the final three $1 players selected during the auction, the quarterback must be cut after Week One and (3) the owner must make transactions (pick up another quarterback) to make his roster compliant in Week Two.

- Article 4 Players are signed from waivers under their existing contract.
- Article 5 A team may not claim any player that the team itself placed on waivers.

Penalty b) The Commissioner may void the transaction if players are not waived in a timely manner after a team has been notified of its roster violation.

Article 2 Rosters can only be made compliant by waiving players or performing valid practice squad or injured reserve transactions.

Article 3 A team cannot waive free agents signed during free agency to make its roster compliant after free agency.

SECTION 4 FINES

Article 1 The fine for the first roster violation is $2.00 paid to the Pot.

Article 2 The fine doubles for each subsequent violation.

Article 3 There will be an additional $20 fine for starting an invalid roster

Note a) The term 'invalid' does not apply to players deactivated on game-day.

Note b) To the extent that it is unforeseen before the final trade/free agency/waiver wire deadline, this rule should not be enforced where an NFL team cuts a player, effectively making a lineup 'invalid' after the deadline.
